Drummer, lead vocalist and Wild Side founder Susette Andres is from Long Island, New York, where growing up she found herself more interested in drums than dolls. She started playing the drums at the age of 5 and was playing on stage while barely in junior high. She had studied with some of the best drummers from Bobby Rondinelli (Rainbow), Carmine Appice (Rod Stewart, Randy Castillo (Ozzy Osbourne), Gregg Bissonette (Ringo Starr, David Lee Roth) and Pat Torpey (Mr Big). She formed her first professional band, Tuff Cookies, in high school, and they played New York's hottest night clubs, including CBGB's and Max's Kansas City. Looking to expand her fame beyond New York, she moved to Los Angeles and created Precious Metal, an all-girl band that was put under contract with Polygram Records. After generating one album with Precious Metal, Susette moved on to form two other all-female bands, Wylde Hearts and Bombshell. When Bombshell disbanded, Susette moved from Studio City to the Antelope Valley, where she created Wild Side, a band that focuses on playing proven hits to appreciative nightclub audiences. While Wild Side satisfies Susette's desire to play live, she hears too many songs in her head to ignore. To express her own music, Susette has formed her latest original music band, The Other Otherz. While The Other Otherz are preparing for their own live shows, Susette continues to live, work and play on the Wild Side.

Guitarist Jeff Mattern toured all over Europe with top ten recording artists Fantastics. Locally he performed with the group Fire Storm before deciding to take a walk on the Wild Side. He plays a mean guitar and his style is greatly influenced by Steve Vai, Joe Satriani, and of course Eddie Van Halen. Jeff wows audiences with his flashy, fast playing.

Vocalist Michael Boggs started singing with the encouragement of Susette. With her incredible musical talent she has helped him to become a part of the Wild Side family. Michael not only sings but books the band & is the band's webmaster

T.M. Weber is a professional musician with over 30yrs of playing experience. He holds a B.A. in Music with a Major in Guitar Performance (VCU 1993), and he is also proficient on Bass, Mandolin, Piano and drums. With over 25yrs. of professional live and studio session experience, he has also become a reliable and road tested working musician on both the national club and casino circuits. He carries several endorsements, but values the friends and relationships that have come from them more than anything. Speaking of good friends, he's been burning it up with his Wild Side band mates, in some form or another, since 2010.

....and yes, always uses the same equipment, because it rocks! He has always run Crate Guitar amps, SWR Bass amps, Samson wireless systems, and uses Hosa Cables and plugs.
